Notitia librorum est dimidium studiorum et maxima eruditionis pars exactam librorum habere cognitionem.

THURMANN.

There is hardly another nation in the East which draws during the last decade or two so much the eyes of the Western world upon itself than the Japanese. Gifted with quick perceptive faculty, personal courage, hardly equalled artistic sense and affable character, these "Europeans of the East", as they have been recently named, and their fair consorts, which Admiral Roze with his innate politeness called more than fifteen years ago "ces Eves avant le péché", woke suddenly up of their oriental seclusion like "Dornroeschen" [fairy queen] in the woods.

Much has been written concerning them by a multitude of workers of all sorts and conditions, but much requires still to be done. To make an inventory of all, what has been said, is the object of this compilation, for nothing is more important to know before one begins to study a subject than to be aware of the best books on it, — and before writing on any topic than to be acquainted with the whole cognate literature in order to start with a thorough knowledge and unbiased opinion. The main part of the work has been made up of the large bibliographies by Poole, Taschenberg, Orientalische Bibliographie, Truebner's Record etc., the extracts of which have been carefully checked by cross-references with the "Catalogue of Scientific Papers" and similar works as those by Heinsius, Lorenz a. o. Other titles have been taken from bibliographies on special subjects, which Prof. B. H. Chamberlain, Mr D. MacRitchie, Rev. W. E. Griffis a. o. added to their valuable monographs. Not a few titles have further been gathered from quotations dispersed here and there in the leading works on Japan notwithstanding that I could use them only with great care, for it is not an exception to find somewhere quoted:

Kattendijke, Journal de son séjour au Japon and elsewhere: Van Kattendijke, Diary of his stay in Japan only to find out afterwards that the real title of the work is: Huyssen van Kattendijke, Dagboek van gedurende zijn verblijf in Japan and neither a French nor an English translation in existence. But not a few writers revel in such "chinoiseries"; it may be that it looks to them more learned than an accurately copied title.

In many cases brief articles have been referred to as they seemed to be of value from a scientific point of view for the specialist. — Articles in newspapers however have been excluded as a rule; for Lord Macaulay would hardly have said in these days "The only true history of a nation is to be found in the newspapers", when so many articles in the "dailies" with a few honourable exceptions of some leading papers are more or less tinted with political or religious bias, or are written for mercenary purposes as by German-Jewish pressmen.

My earlier intention to include the period up to 1859 in my Bibliography was abandoned on account of the useless additional editorial labour and printing expense, especially as it would be rather difficult for anyone to improve much the painstaking and concise "Bibliographie japonaise depuis le XV^{e} siècle jusqu'à nos jours [i. e. 1859]" by the late Mr L. Pagès.

But as this latter work deserves better to be known than it is amongst students and scholars outside of France, I thought it best to add to my work an autographed reprint of it. Should however anybody feel anxious to plume himself with a knowledge of the earlier literature on Japan, he would only have to copy all titles given in:

Léon Pagès, Histoire de la religion chrétienne au Japon depuis 1598 jusqu'à 1651. (p. 60 of this Bibliography).

Calendar of State Papers, Colonial Series vols II—IV. (ibidem, p. 100).

and in several similar works in order to make up a compendious and, if he is an accurate copist, a correct list of the early literature without incurring the expense and trouble of visiting all large libraries in Europe.

Reviews of books have with very few exceptions neither been incorporated in this Bibliography; a proportion of them is undoubtedly of considerable value for the reader as they show the shortcomings of a work caused by the respective author's inadequate knowledge of the subject, his personal idiosyncrasy or any other deficiency. It should however not to be overlooked that reviews are more or less often valueless panagyrics or occasionally base attacks dictated by professional jealousy.

It was not without regret, that I excluded works in the Russian language from my bibliography, as amongst them are a number of writings full of deep erudition or historical facts on Japan and especially its past or present dependencies. But the difficulty, which I would have had to overcome in order to give an approximately accurate and complete list of them — besides being so far away from from all sources — was not in proportion to the advantage as the number of Japanese scholars outside the Russian empire, who are likewise acquainted with the Russian language, is too insignificant. Should however a Russian scholar be willing to undertake this task, the Japan Society here will no doubt be pleased to insert such a list in a volume of their Transactions.

To give an English translation of the titles of foreign works beside the original — as it has been suggested to me — would have greatly enlarged the extent of this book, obstructed its clearness and likewise increased its costprice without any adequate advantage; for a mere title is of little or rather no use whatever for those, who are unfamiliar with the respective foreign idiom. On the other hand I hope to meet the wishes of the greater majority of all interested in Japan, and of the Japanese themselves in editing this work in the English language, the lingua franca of all Oriental students.

The spelling of the words in the titles has never been changed — printers errors or slips of my pen excepted —, therefore are to be found "trave*l*ing" "thea*t*er" and other Americanisms; "japan*esisch*" und "japan*isch*" in German; "monume*n*s" as written by the Revue des Deux Mondes and "monumen*t*s" as decreed by the Académie française. The same neutrality has been observed in respect to proper names, viz "Aino" and "Ainu", "Yedo" and "Yeddo" and many more Japanese or Chinese words.

Foreign letters, unknown to the English language, in outlandish authors names or catchwords in anonymous titles have been arranged according to the English "I-ro-ha" as for instance: ñ and ll in Spanish words under "n" and "double l", å and ô in Danish and Swedish words under "ae" and "oe", ij in Dutch under "i j". I thought hereby to study the convenience of the reader, but was not by any means influenced to do so by a shortsighted desire to attempt an improvement of the foreign orthography by overriding grammatical rules of other tongues.

Beside the more or less numerous inaccuracies or omissions, which may be or rather are in my compilation, I will only point out two kinds of "apparent" errors, to which I cannot plead guilty. Many "parts" of periodical publications of scientific societies or "tirages a part" of articles therefrom bear one date, while the titlepage of the complete volume of the same publication bears a date one or several years later. For instance "Knipping, The great taifun of August 1880" in part 23 of the "Mittheilungen der deutschen Gesellschaft fuer die Natur- und Voelkerkunde Ostasiens" is dated "1880", while the titlepage of the complete volume bears the date of 1883. — The second class of contradictions occurs repeatedly in quotations of articles published in the "Transactions of the Asiatic Society of Japan", and others. So for instance Mr. W. G. Aston's paper "Has Japan an affinity with Aryan languages?" is published in volume II pp. 223-231 of the original edition of this serial, while the same paper is in the litteral reprint of this volume on pp. 199-206. I should have indicated each time such seeming contradictions which are sometimes confusing, but I had neither leisure nor inclination for such a pedantic and time-wasting labour.

Orthographic errors in proper names have been corrected in the two indices, at least so far they came to my notice. A few other mistakes have been rectified in the list of errata and addenda at the end, while some misprints — few and far between — as "Britisch" for "British", in English, "affairs" for "affaires" in French and "hutige" for "heutige" in German have been left uncorrected, as every one will understand their meaning, leaving it to a friendly critic to reproach me imperfect knowledge of these languages.

In respect to prices I tought best to give simply the original published price in the currency of the country in which the books were published and to leave out altogether the prices of pamphlets or articles in the periodical press.

For to fix a marketprice, even of the standard works only, would be an impossible task, beside being utterly useles. — Impossible as books are even more than most other commodities of life subject to considerable fluctuations in price, according to the supply and demand — and useless, even if the price is fixed by the publisher, as the additional expense for postage, customduty, labour to procure them etc. vary greatly in each particular case in different countries.

Thanks to the facilities, which the British Museum, the Patent Office and several other public libraries as well as those of the Middle Temple, various scientific societies a. o. in London and the Bibliothèque Nationale, Musée Guimet a, o. in Paris (during my repeated stay there) accorded to me, I was enabled to consult whole serials, manuscript catalogues a. o. I am consequently in the position to quote numerous titles of works difficult to find and mentioned nowhere else. — A small number of editors of scientific periodicals and secretaries of learned societies sent me likewise on my application a full list of articles on Japan, which were published in their serials. I owe further my respectful thanks to the directors of two foreign statelibraries, who exercised their discretional power to lend books, in sending me a few, which are not available here.

Finally I am greatly indebted to Mr A. Diosy, Vice-Chairman of the Japan Society for the advice and encouragement he gave me during this rather arduous and frequently tedious task — and to Mr A. Gramatzky, Dr. phil. in Ostende for reading the second proof of the greater part of this work.

Nobody can be better aware of the weak side or rather sides of this compilation than I myself, but only those few who ever undertook a similar task have an idea of the labour involved as the difficulty increases with the extent of the work not in arithmetical but geometrical progression. However I shall not regret having undertaken the task nor having born myself the large pecuniary outlay, which it involved, if the work proves to be useful and to meet the requirements of the student and bibliophile.

This still unfinished work remained without arrangement after the death of the author. — When the stock passed in the hands of Mr. B. Quaritch, he had titles pages printed to the work with a collation or key to it. This explains that volumes II-VII bear the date of 1852, notwithstanding that they were published about 20 years earlier.

ERRATA AND ADDENDA.

3 Dickson, W. G. Gleanings from Japan etc. published in "1889".

15 Atsume Gusa 5th line, read "[see p. 16 under Ban Zai Sau]".

22 add: Mittheilungen der deutschen Gesellschaft fuer Natur- und Voelkerkunde Ostasiens, vol. VI pp. 149-196 [pt. 54] 4to, Tokio, August 1894.

Contents pp. 149-189. Dr. L. Loenholm, Arai Hakuseki und Pater Sidotti. — pp. 190-194. F. B. Stephenson, Colorblindness in Asiatics from observations made during 1891-93. — pp. 195-196. Review of "Fesca's Beitraege zur Kenntniss der japanischen Landwirthschaft, 2 vols and atlas".

29 and 30 T oung Pao. — The number of the pages and the strokes separating each article from the next have been wrongly placed throughout the list of contents of this periodical; — for instance vol. I pp. 1—14 refers to the preceding article "F. Hirth, Die Erfindung des Papiers in China" and not to the following as one would be intitled to think.

33 Transactions Asiatic Society Japan in Tokio, vol. IX pp. 103-211, E. Satow, Ancient Jap. rituals.

35 add: Transactions of the same Society.

IMPRIMERIE DE W. REMQUETC, ET C^ie^ RUE GARANOIERE, 5.

L'empire japonais, déférant sagement aux conseils des puissances européennes, a, dans ces derniers temps, abjuré sa haine séculaire envers les étrangers, et déposé le vain orgueil qui l'étreignait comme un linceul, et l'enfermait dans les ténèbres de l'ignorance et de l'idolâtrie · le vieil empire s'associe déjà sans réserve au commerce universel du monde, et bientôt, sur les traces des diplomates et des négociants, les missionnaires catholiques pénétreront dans ses provinces et ressusciteront cette Église japonaise, si féconde en saints exemples et en glorieux martyres, au sein d'un peuple héroïque appelé par saint François-Xavier les délices de son âme, peuple si capable de concevoir la vérité divine et de la pratiquer après l'avoir connue.

Nous avons entrepris, il y a cinq ans, d'étudier, d'après les documents anciens et modernes, l'histoire du Japon au point de vue européen, et d'exposer, autant que le permettent les notions acquises, la nature physique de l'archipel, la constitution de l'empire, les mœurs de la nation, l'abrégé des annales politiques, pleines de révolutions et de guerres, et parallèlement à l'histoire, l'origine de l'Église chrétienne, ses progrès, ses souffrances et son anéantissement dans le sang des fidèles. Nous avons compris dans nos études les relations anciennes du Japon avec les nations européennes, le commerce précaire conservé par les Hollandais, et les relations nouvelles avec l'Europe depuis la fin du dernier siècle jusqu'à nos jours. Cet ouvrage, qui comprendra quatre volumes est assez avancé pour que nous puissions le publier avant deux ans.

En même temps nous avons traduit du hollandais la grammaire japonaise de MM Donker Curtius et Hoffmann, publiée à La Haye en 1857, et du portugais, le dictionnaire Japonais-Portugais composé par les missionnaires de la Compagnie de Jésus, et publié à Nangasaki en 1603 Ces derniers ouvrages sont terminés et doivent bientôt paraître.

Dans le cours de nos études, nous avons été surpris de l'abondance des matériaux qui s'offraient à nous, nous avons scrupuleusement relevé les titres des documents, et nous croyons servir les intérêts de la science en publiant dès aujourd'hui notre catalogue bibliographique qui pourra procurer aux missionnaires, aux savants et aux voyageurs la connaissance générale des sources.

Nous devons exprimer ici tous nos sentiments de reconnaissance envers les personnages vénérables qui ont daigné patroner nos études.

A Rome, S. Em. Révérme le cardinal A. Barnabó, préfet de la S. C. de la Propagande, le Révérme Père Jandel, maître général des Frères Prêcheurs, le Très-Révd Père Beckx, général de la Compagnie de Jésus, et les RR. PP. Rubillon, assistant de France, et de Villefort, de la même Compagnie, nous ont ouvert l'accès de leurs bibliothèques et de leurs archives, et nous ont permis de consulter en toute occasion leur profonde sagesse.

Sous les auspices de ces autorités éminentes, plusieurs savants religieux nous ont assisté de la manière la plus sympathique. Nous ne saurions les nommer tous, mais nous conservons de leurs excellents offices un respectueux et profond souvenir

Le temps nous a manqué pour profiter complétement des bontés du Révérme Père général des Franciscains réformés. Nous devons néanmoins à cet illustre et saint religieux les communications très-libérales qui nous ont été faites dans les couvents de Saint-Isidore et des Santi-Quaranta.

A Paris, MM. les conservateurs de la bibliothèque impériale, MM. Ravenel, Magnin, Reinaud et Jomard, se sont montrés pour nous d'une parfaite bienveillance. M. Ravenel a favorisé nos travaux dans toute l'étendue de son pouvoir, et M Jomard les a pour ainsi dire adoptés en s'y intéressant avec une bonté vraiment paternelle.

Le présent opuscule, malgré tant de secours, et malgré tous nos soins, est évidemment très-imparfait encore, mais nous avons préféré le publier à cette heure : en effet, le soin de sa perfection plus grande retarderait les services qu'il peut rendre et l'achèvement de notre ouvrage historique.

Nous prions les personnes à qui nous aurons offert ce travail en hommage de vouloir bien nous en signaler les erreurs et les omissions, desquelles nous pouvons dire, en toute vérité, ce que disait sainte Catherine de Gênes, en parlant de ce qu'elle appelait ses fautes : « Ce sont les fruits de notre jardin. »

Le japonais est écrit en lettres européennes. Ce vocabulaire perfectionne celui de 1595, donne les sens particuliers et métaphoriques et les expressions élégantes ; il omet les noms propres de lieux, de personnes, et autres non essentiels pour apprendre la langue : il suit l'ordre alphabétique européen comme le vocab. de 1595 ; il distingue les expressions du Cami, du Ximo, celles de la poésie, de la littérature simple, les termes du Buppô ou doctrine païenne, enfin, les termes vils.

DOCUMENTS MANUSCRITS

Nous donnons seulement ici l'indication des pièces manuscrites énoncées par nos auteurs d'une manière à peu près certaine ou vérifiées par nous-même. Nous n'avons pu visiter les grands dépôts de Lisbonne, de Madrid, de Londres et de Saint-Pétersbourg.

Il doit exister des manuscrits nombreux dans les archives du royaume des Pays-Bas, et dans celles des directeurs du commerce néerlandais au Japon; au British Museum, à l'East-India House, etc., etc.

Nous ignorons si les archives des maisons religieuses de Portugal et d'Espagne n'ont pas été dispersées : elles contenaient des trésors immenses.

P. Belchior Nunez Barreto († en 1571). — Plusieurs lettres manuscrites conservées autrefois dans les maisons professes de Lisbonne et de Saint Roch.

— Le même Père emporta du Japon, en 1557, pour les supérieurs de Rome, un livre des erreurs et sectes japonaises.

De Backer, II.

Alphabetum japonicum et exemplare. — Cette pièce, qui se trouve à la Bibliot. de la Minerve, porte sur la 1re feuille : Domùs professæ Romanæ Soc. Jesu; et sur la dernière : Alexander Reggius à Valle Societ. Jesu. 33 feuillets f° piccolo.

Le P. Alexandre Vallareggio, né en Lombardie en 1530, missionnaire en Afrique, aux Indes, au Japon (de 1568 à 1570), mort glorieusement à Ceuta.
